Concert for two violins in D Minor, BWV 1043, is often called Bach Double and was composed by Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750). The precise date is unknown when this concert was composed. Although it was originally thought that Bach composed this piece during the time he was director of music for Prince Leopold of Anhalt at Cöthen (between 1717 and 1723), the recent scholar seems to indicate that Bach composed this concert during his Leipzig period. Parts manuscript for Bach's minor concert for two violins date from approximately 1730-31, [1] a time when Bach was not only the civic music director for Leipzig (one of Germany's most prestigious musical posts at the time) but he had also assumed the leadership of Collegium Musicum of Leipzig, a voluntary organization founded by Telemann in 1702. The members of the Leipzig school included university students and professional musicians, and contributed to the musical culture of Leipzig with weekly weekly with weekly with weekly with weekly with weekly with weekly with weekly with weekly with weekly with weekly culture with weekly with Leipzig with weekly culture with weekly culture with weekly magazine with Leipzig. [2] The Bach minor concert is punctuated for two individual violins, continuous and strings, and follows the typical Baroque concert pattern of three movements (quiet fast). This particular agreement has been simplified and organized for three instruments. The interaction of Bach among the soloists is exquisite as the melodies intertwine with each other in a continuous stream of counterpoint melodies.
